Book Description

"M.I.S.//ing" is an American manga series set in a midwestern accounting firm. Part workplace comedy, part science fiction horror tale, M.I.S.//ing solves the mystery of why the IT people never seem available when you need them. The reason? They're busy fighting aliens and saving the world.

Series Bio

Born out of genuine desire to know what the M.I.S. department did all day and series creator's Dani Dixon's rampant imagination, M.I.S.//ing envisions what could possibly be more important to the "IT guy" than helping the people at their company solve computer problems.

The title is a play on the official designation of the department M.I.S. (Management of Information Systems) and the fact that in this series IT guys often go missing.
